Delaware Valley Hospital Visits Local Schools for Handwashing Education

UHS Delaware Valley Hospital recently brought their germ busting equipment to elementary students at both Walton Central School District and Hancock Central School District to show them the proper way to wash their hands.

The kids were given a special potion, which causes germs to glow under our special germ buster light to show how dirty hands can get. They then washed their hands and were able to put them back under the light to see the germs now gone and how effective and important washing your hands is!

The kids had a blast while learning and were rewarded with a sticker and certificate for their great work!
