

Fueling Freedom to raise money for military families

CountryMark is gearing up for Independence Day with a Fueling Freedom event you won't want to miss! On Friday, June 23 between noon and 5 p.m. at participating CountryMark fuel stations, CountryMark & Superior Ag will donate 50 cents for every gallon of fuel pumped to local National Guard Family Readiness Groups. Also at each Fueling Freedom site, customers and guests will be invited to register to win a $150 fuel card.

"Fueling Freedom is our opportunity to pay tribute to the service, sacrifice and patriotism of local National Guard troops and their families," said CountryMark Vice President of Supply & Marketing Matt Smorch. "We are proud to partner with CountryMark retail fuel stations throughout the state to give back to our military families and honor the sacrifice they make to serve and protect our country."

CountryMark initiated the Fueling Freedom fundraiser nine years ago to support military families. In 2016, CountryMark raised $64,000 for local National Guard Family Readiness Groups. Many of the Family Readiness Groups use their funds to host for soldiers and their families summer picnics, Christmas parties, after-school programs, as well as to send packages to deployed local soldiers.

A total of 40 CountryMark fuel stations are participating in Fueling Freedom 2017. All three of Superior Ag's fuel stations are participating in the Fueling Freedom event, these sites include:
